

A horizontal bar composed of six rectangular segments of equal width. Each segment is filled with a different shade of gray, transitioning from dark gray on the left to light gray on the right. The segments are separated by thin black lines.

